

Why Japanese culture doesn't walk, but America's culture run quick

The United States and Japan are two big countries with their own specific features and characteristics. Two countries that undoubtedly have a worthy place in the contemporary world and with their internal capabilities have been able to introduce the world of advanced life and development of the world, a system of life that provides social welfare and generosity to the world and surprises the world. Of course, it must be stated that these two countries have not reached their present position with the fatalities and militaristic symbols, But with the modern attitude and innovative thinking of their scholars and by passing past-oriented profiles into their current lives, The factors that bring modernizing developments to these two countries' and has brought these two to a high social level. And so, the two countries, with their own peculiar values, could become the two most valuable economic blocks in the world, and the subject of this article.

Japan has a very long history with many ups and downs. But the United States is a country whose civilization does not reach for three hundred years. Japan is one of two strong empires alongside the Mughal Empire and one of the most influential countries beside China in the East of World Geography. Japan's Shinto tradition is that with the prevalence of Buddhism in the eighth century and the combination of these two, the Japanese people faced a new ritual called synthetic Shinto. Shinto's religion, which is predominant in the religion of Japan, is based on the extreme patriotism, the worship of national deities, especially the emperor and respect for the dead. And on the basis of these unfortunate characteristics that have evolved over the past hundred years of nationalist ignorance and radical militarism in Japan, and intensified nationalist opposition, along with intensifying the opposition to other religions and nations. So it is from this era that the war with powerful countries (the enemy) was the top of the foreign policy of Japan and experienced wars with China and the West. Unfortunately, the latest militaristic and militant movements with enemies peaked at a sudden attack on the American air base in Pearl Harbor, Hawaiian Islands, in 1941, which, of course, required the United States to enter the Second World War and imposed a major defeat on Japan after the bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, the event that plagued Japan, but fortunately revealed a new perspective in the minds of the thinkers and rational Japanese politicians, and evolved a new era of wise and clever behaviors in Japan. And it was that this turbulent land and this former warrior nation, was transformed into a nation of modernity arrays and entered the world of peace and reconciliation with the world.

But America, a country that does not have an old history at all, a country and the people that are not based on a particular religion. A country whose, primary basis is based on rationality and intelligence and avoids from vain and unfruitful behaviors. A country that, at the time of its establishment, relied on the knowledge of contemporary and modern thinkers, Great people that introduced a new definition of the nature of society and introduced a new model of life to the world. These new concepts of life have led to the establishment of new concepts and structures in the field of social organization and the concepts of human being, which has attracted the intellectuals of the world. And so, with the aggregation of the world's elite, a country with unique and unconventional infrastructure symbols has been set up. A country that has not gained its glory from militarism and warfare with the world, but has become of two cultural and economic dimensions that, in the face of the world's obstinacy and admiration, has become an unrivaled military power. That is, a society that has been considered as one of the military, economic, political, and so on dimensions. A country that has not gained its glory from militarism and warfare with the world, but has come so powerful from two very cultural and economic spheres, which, while astonishing and admiring the world, has become an unrivaled military power. That is, a society that is considered to be unique in military, economic, political, and so on dimensions. By studying the parameters of culture, way of thinking and attitudes in these two types of modern civilization in the world, one must be able to find the reasons for the two countries in the field of development and growth , and discover the differences between these two types of civilization in various fields of this evolution. This means that the reader understands that the advancement of countries such as Japan and America does not depend on the military strength and the warrior culture. The two countries, however, have been transforming their attitudes into the world (attitudinal transformation) that have gained social momentum and proud their people in the world. Indeed, as long as Japan had a military-minded attitude and antagonism to other nations and cultures, it did not come. But it became a pioneer in the world after a change in attitude. But America, on the contrary, did not has an attitude of hostility to other countries from the first day, due to constructive thinking that has come to the forefront in the world and today is considered to be a leading country with a gigantic economy. Meanwhile, despite the pioneering and superiority of these two countries, fundamental differences still exist between the two civilizations. Japan today is not the land of dreams for the people of the world. Today, the people of the world do not have anxiety to migrate to Japan. Today, not only Japan's kind of culture and behavior is not capable of penetrating other nations, even the American culture has come to Japan. And definitely, the difference between these two societies is that today, global competition is being held for American immigration and citizenship, and because of the vitality and happiness of a life in America, everyone, and perhaps better, said that most people in the world want a life in the United States have. Or they want to live with American culture.

We are heading into this chapter, although Japan is among the highest ranking countries in the world, and many countries, including Iran, follow the economic model of Japan. But if Japan's economic pattern is impressive. But without a doubt, the pattern of American life is all about its ideal, and the United States has become the utopia, the place for the people of the world with the identity of the dreams land. So, we see that American culture, in conjunction with European culture, subverts all territories (especially the Third World), leaving ambiguity and dichotomy to the backward countries. Therefore, with the same cultural influence that many countries suffer from cultural illness and cultural dichotomy, they inevitably call the American or European culture an invader. However, the weak culture of the affected countries has forced people to embrace the rich and enduring culture of American and European culture. And therefore, today no country is immune from the influence of American-European culture. It's also worth mentioning that we have to accept that American culture is not at all an invader, and Americans do not intend to overwhelm other cultures. But their culture is so spectacular and pleasing, that goes quickly and plows. But, as has been said, the culture of an advanced country, such as Japan and many other progressive countries can't run or even walk and influence at all. And that's because I think we should not fight US, but we should try to become like the United States. Because become US is the only way to prevent US influence.
